MR. MCGAULEY ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE—
An interesting affair of the past week was the afternoon bridge party given by Mrs. W. D. McGauley at her home on South Main street Thursday, February 7th. The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Glenn Jennings who ushered them upstairs, where they were greeted with dainty valentine tables by Mrs. Lester E. Brannen. Eight tables of guests were present. High score, consisting of red and white linen handkerchiefs, was won by Mrs. Percy Averitt. A Dutch kitchen pad, for floating, went to Mrs. Olin Smith, and for cut, Mrs. Maxie Grimes received an earthenware powder jar. The valentine idea was carried out not only in the refreshment but in the decorations, the flowers being red geraniums, narcissus and red and white japonicas, throughout the house. The hostess was assisted in serving by Misses Mary Ruth Lanier, Gladys Thayer and Florence Daley. Later in the afternoon quite a few friends came in for tea.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. In a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedke, of Dayton, writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, safely and quickly take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—a quarter pound jar lasts 4 weeks—get it at Brannen Drug Co., or any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—money back—Adv. (5)

NIRA CHANGES FOR ANTI-TRUST LAWS

ACCUSATION OF FOSTERING "MONOPOLY" WOULD BE MET BY ALTERATION.

Washington, Feb. 12.—President Roosevelt, an informed source said Thursday, would like congress to change a portion of the National Industrial Recovery Act so the anti-trust laws would apply more closely than in the past.

This disclosure was called important by Democratic leaders in congress, who looked upon it as a means of meeting "monopoly" accusations. They recalled Clarence Darrow's findings that NRA was fostering monopoly, and Senator Borah's belief that the "little fellow" was being harmed.

The congressional leaders gathered late Wednesday with President Roosevelt for a conference with the attorney general, Mr. Cummings, and decided upon extending NRA's basic principles for two more years.

Afterward, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, said the changes to be suggested would be few, simple and dictated by "experience."

From another source, it was learned that one of the features the president does not want changed is Section 7-A, which guarantees the right of labor to bargain freely and without coercion through representatives of its own choosing. It was said that the president desires no tampering with this clause.

Just what bearing, if any, this has on the recent disagreement between the administration and the leadership of the American Federation of Labor was not stated. Though the federal leader, William Green, some time ago expressed the opinion that Section 7-A should be continued unchanged, some other labor circles have desired alterations.

They have said that the section should be revamped to eliminate "company unions." Industrial leaders, fighting such changes, have sought alterations of their own. For one thing, they have said, the law should prohibit "coercion" by union men or other groups of employees as well as by employers.

The section has been one of the most controversial in all New Deal legislation.

Informed sources also said it was suggested at the White House conference that President Roosevelt should be given authority to decide whether NRA should be administered by a board or returned to one-man rule. Another idea expressed was that some penalty clauses might be lightened.

A presidential message on the future of NRA, which expires June 16 unless it is renewed, is expected this week. Congressional leaders do not expect the administration to send a bill to congress. They believe the President will leave the task of drawing the legislation to the legislators themselves.

REGISTER STUDENTS TO SPONSOR OYSTER SUPPER

The fifth grade of the Register school will sponsor an oyster supper on Saturday afternoon and evening, February 23, for the benefit of the P. T. A. for the purpose of raising funds for the new shades and other necessary equipment in the room. Oysters, shrimp, hot dogs and other refreshments will be on sale from 4 to 10 o'clock p. m. Mrs. K. E. Watson and Mrs. J. H. Strickland, grand mothers, and Miss Bessie Martin, teacher, will be in charge.

Adventists Report Year's Activities

More and broader work of the church for these in need, was the urge of R. J. Strickland, home missionary secretary of the Southeastern Union Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, at the annual workers' convention held here recently. The combined churches of Stilton, Portia vicinity, and Statesboro were well represented.

R. H. Pierson, secretary of the Georgia-Cumberland conference, was chairman of the convention. A report upon the Statesboro home missionary society activities for the year 1934 is as follows: 287 individuals helped with food and homely ministry; 56 articles of clothing given to the needy; 81 hours spent in mending, sewing and making quilts for those in need of such help; 55 hours spent in nursing and caring for the sick.

BULLOCH COUNTY—
THE HEART OF GEORGIA.
"WHERE NATURE SMILES."

BULLOCH SENDS FOUR TO MILLEDGEVILLE

Deputy Sheriff Paul McElveen carried to Milledgeville last Monday a group of four convicts contributed to the state farm by the recent session of Bulloch superior court. Among those were Rexie Rushing, white, convicted of the death of a negro and given four to six years; Idella Hodges, a negro, given two years for larceny from the house; Eunice Coleman, one year for larceny, and Corinne Sherrod, six months for selling liquor.

TRAINED RESERVE NOW IS PROPOSED

MACARTHUR BILL AIMED TO BUILD VOLUNTARY FORCE OF HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN.

Washington, Feb. 12.—An enlisted reserve force of more than 100,000 partially trained young men recruited for two months by the National Guard, now being drafted by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff.

MacArthur's bill, being drawn at the suggestion of the house military committee, would provide for voluntary enlistment of CCC camp graduates to receive intensive military training. After the two months they would revert to inactive status. There is now no available reserve of men to fill the ranks of the regular army quickly in an emergency, MacArthur told the house committee. The young men of the Civilian Conservation Corps, toughened by work in the forest camps, would make ideal recruits for a short, intensive training course, he said.

After serving two months the enrollees would be paid $24 per year, sufficient to maintain their interest in keeping the War Department informed of their whereabouts, and periodically presenting themselves for physical examination.

The 100,000 men would not be enlisted all at once, but gradually as they left the CCC camps. The estimated cost of the force, MacArthur reported, is $7,000,000.

The chief of staff emphasized the lack of reserve force in this country. Immediately after the World War, he said, there were approximately 4,000,000 trained men available for reserve duty. Congress authorized organization of the reserves but has never appropriated funds to make the organization possible.

The young men of World War days, MacArthur said, have passed the age at which they could be considered suitable for an emergency army. Any such force would have to be trained from the "awkward step" on.

DEPRESSION OVER DECLARES FORD

PREDICTS "LAVISH" PRODUCTION IMMEDIATELY—HE OPPOSES REGIMENTATION

The depression is over, declares Henry Ford in Liberty Magazine, asserting that we are due "to see lavish production of high quality goods in every line at prices every one can pay."

"When our cardinal and inclusive quality of individualism begins to stir again, as it surely will, in our 125,000,000 individual Americans," he writes, "we shall see the nation move forward."

"That is what I expect to see in this coming year. . . . This country is going to need all the production it can get."

The motor magnate reviews his reasons for the statement and tells of what the past four years have meant to his company.

"We have learned during the last few years that we 'can't take it' as the boys say, and that it takes a lot to hurt the United States. . . . The far-off future everybody agrees is safe. But the immediate future is safe too. Wise men are getting ready to start now."

The world's three outstanding regimenters of the United States are themselves the most typical individualists, writes Mr. Ford.

"What would our own would-be American regimenters propose to do about their own extreme individualism they do not tell anyone. Are they so convinced of its evil that they are willing to sacrifice it along with ours? They are prescribing for us but not for themselves. They have their goal reducing our people to masses, but they evidently have it in their heads to remain the masters. Of course, this event will not come off."

Dr. Freeman, of Yale, reports, after an exhaustive survey, that the man who "takes it easy" while he works is likely to get the most done. This is encouraging to those who like to take things easy—and that applies, we imagine to most of us.

BROOKLET HOST TO FIRST DISTRICT BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT TO BEGIN THURSDAY

Brooklet, Ga., Feb. 21.—The eastern division of the First District basketball tournament will be held here in the new gymnasium Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The western division will be held in Collins the same days of this week.

The executive committee at a recent meeting divided the district into two divisions, eastern and western. This committee also sub-divided these divisions into B and C groups according to the number of pupils in high school. The B groups in the eastern division who are to enter this tournament are Sylvan, Statesboro, Millen, Portia, E. C. I. and Brooklet; the C groups are Register, Springfield, Stilton, Girard, Pembroke, Guyton, Hinesville and Midville.

The schedule for Thursday is as follows:

2 o'clock, Hinesville-Midville.
3 o'clock, Pembroke-Guyton.
4 o'clock, Springfield-Register.
5 o'clock, Portia-Millen.
8 o'clock, Stilton-Girard.
9 o'clock, Statesboro-Sylvan.

The games Friday afternoon will be 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Cickets will be ready for sale during the present week and will be in the hands of the committee of which Dr. J. H. Whiteside is chairman. The price for the dinner will be 75 cents per plate, as in past years. The hour will be 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

March 5th, and the guests will be expected to assemble at the college auditorium in advance of that hour so that there may be no delay in serving the meal and beginning the program.

All members of the Chamber of Commerce are expected to attend, and likewise are expected to bring their ladies or other guests as desired. In addition, the occasion will be open as far as practicable to others who wish to participate on equal terms. The dining room facilities will be limited, and the attendance is not expected to exceed 250. Tickets should be procured in advance.

WARNOCK AND DENMARK CLUBSTERS ORGANIZE

Warnock and Denmark 4-H Club boys and girls met Wednesday at their respective schools and organized their clubs for 1935.

Warnock clubsters elected Leroy Clanton as president and Blanche Ricklighter, secretary. Frankford Riggs was elected by the boys as their vice-president while the girls elected Mrs. Roughton as their vice-president. These 67 boys and girls selected Port, Rufus Martin and Miss Frances Parker as their sponsors.

Denmark clubsters elected Bill DeLoach president, Eunice Denmark, secretary; Kathleen Lanier as vice-president for the girls, and Alonso

NOTED LECTURER COMES NEXT WEEK

INTERMEYER WILL SPEAK AT COLLEGE SATURDAY AS ONE OF LYCEUM ATTRACTIONS

Louis Untermyer, poet, critic and anthologist, will speak at the South Georgia Teachers College on Saturday, March 2, at 2 o'clock on the subject "A Critic's Half Holiday."

Mr. Untermyer's record of achievement in the fields of poetry, parody and criticism is almost without parallel. He is America's most widely read poet abroad, and at home he is generally recognized as the most brilliant of his generation. As a critic Mr. Untermyer has long been noted for his curious blend of high idealism and withering irony. His volume of essays, "Heavens," was universally acclaimed as one of the most clever and brilliant works of criticism that American literature has produced.

Lastly, Louis Untermyer is one of the few poets in the history of the world, and perhaps the only one in America, who has accomplished a thorough conquest of both the practical and the artistic worlds. He is a well-known designer and manufacturer of jewelry, a poet yet a practical business man, a passionate propagandist, yet a critic with no axes to grind. It was only in 1923, after 20 years of business attempting, that Mr. Untermyer abandoned his manufacturing of jewelry. There was a lull in business, financial needs no longer required him to remain in the wholesale field. He now makes his winter residence in Toledo, Ohio, and summers on a farm in the Adirondacks. The vacation he always thought was ideal.

In power, in range of ideas, in mastery of the dazzling and compelling line, the pen and personality of Louis Untermyer has provoked more interest here and in Europe within the last decade than those of any other American poet now living. It is strange to see the force with which genius often drives its possessors—in many cases into fields contrary to their own desires. Writing poetry was the farthest from his wishes when Mr. Untermyer, as a young man, contemplated a career for himself.

For several seasons Louis Untermyer has been one of America's most popular lecturers. His charm of personality, brilliance of mind and variety of material have made him a continuous success on the lecture platform. He is again touring the country under the management of W. Colston Leigh of New York, offering new topics and some of his ever-popular subjects that people never seem to tire of hearing. Among his new titles are the lectures "What Americans Read and Why," "Why We Write and How," "Poetry and the Average Man," "New Frontiers in America," "The Riddle of Hume," Among his older subjects are "The Glory of the Commonwealth" and "A Critic's Half-Holiday," two of the most delightful literary lectures ever heard in America.

Shoe Expert to Visit Statesboro

Announcement is made of the approaching visit of a representative of Dr. Scholl, the specialist in fitting shoes for the hard-to-fit. This expert will be at the Favorite Shoe Store on today, Monday, Feb. 19, and on February 27th, for the entire day. If you have any foot troubles, call and have them diagnosed and treated.

Brooklet Christian Church Have Revival

Announcement is made that a revival meeting will be held in the Brooklet Christian church beginning Sunday, February 24th, and continuing to the 5th of March.

Rev. Bruce Nay, state secretary of the State Missionary Board of the Disciples of Christ, will lead the meeting.

This is the third time Rev. Nay has been invited to conduct the revival meeting for this church and the announcement that he is coming again is pleasing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chandler, of Statesboro, have invited the evangelist and his wife to be their guests during the length of the meeting.

Rev. Nay will deliver the first message on Sunday morning, February 24th, at 11:30 a. m., and each evening at 8 p. m.

Cordial welcome awaits all who will attend these meetings.

Lively Contest In Gasoline Circles

That was a lively contest in Statesboro last Saturday when the local salesmen of Sinclair gasoline staged a contest to decide which agency was most popular.

The contest was between two organizations, Reppard DeLoach and Bob Pond on North Main street, and Glendland Jr. and L. T. Denmark Jr., on Savannah avenue. Thousands of gallons of gas were sold to the friends of these two groups of popular young men. The Savannah avenue group won by a close margin, the sales for that day showing an increase of 619 per cent over the preceding Saturday, while the North Main organization, which really sold the most gas, showed an increase of 537 per cent.
